
10 Things You can do NOW to Minimize Radiation Exposure in your HOME

Bill Cadwallader
Electromagnetic Radiation Consultant
StopDirtyElectricity.com

TEN Things You Can Do NOW to Minimize Your Exposure to Radiation in your Home.

1. MOVE your cell phone, iPad, tablet, Kindle, and chargers away from night stand. All electronic devices should be as far away as possible. A cell phone, iPad, tablet, and Kindle, that are ON, generate radiation and wallchargers generate radiation.
2. When you use a cell phone, always use it on SPEAKER phone. Never hold it up to your ear. If you have a weak signal, your cell phone will generate even more radiation trying to connect.
3. When you carry a cell phone close to your body, turn OFF Bluetooth & WiFi, turn ON AIRPLANE MODE Cell phones generate radiation even if you are not on a call. *When in Airplane Mode, you will not be able to receive phone calls, texts, or data.
4. Turn OFF the Router while you sleep. Routers that produce WiFi continue to generate radiation even though no one is using a portable electronic device. Move the Router as far away as possible from offices and bedrooms. Before you turn off the Router, ensure that the alarm system, your telephone, etc., do not go through the Router.
5. REPLACE cordless phones with phones that plug directly into the wall (land-lines). Eliminate all portable phones; they act just like a cell phone. Cordless phone bases generate radiation constantly, even if you are not on a call.
6. When reading or working on cell phone, laptop, iPad, tablet, or Kindle, turn OFF Bluetooth & WiFi & turn ON AIRPLANE MODE. When in Airplane Mode, you will not be able to receive phone calls, texts, or data.
7. LEAVE the room when you use a microwave oven. The farther you remove yourself from the microwave, the less radiation you will receive. Reduce overall microwave use as much as possible.
8. Turn printer, computer, laptop, iPad, tablet, Kindle OFF when not in use. These devices will constantly try to connect to WiFi and will generate radiation when trying to connect. Avoid using these portable devices on your lap. Never use when they are plugged in and charging. Always use in the battery mode.

9. NEVER USE a Bluetooth wireless earpiece. They generate radiation. Even when you are not on a call, the Bluetooth device is constantly trying to connect to another Bluetooth device generating radiation.
10. Determine if you have a new Electrical Utility “Smart Meter” with a digital display. Smart Meters have been measured and can be 10 to 70 times more powerful than a cell phone. REPLACE a “Smart Meter” with the previous analog meter – a meter without an LED Display. If your utility offers this, it is normally called an “opt-out” program.

BONUS TIP1: Never place a Baby Monitor near a baby’s head. Move the baby Monitor as far away as possible. Both units of the Baby Monitor generate radiation constantly.

Source: Bill Cadwallader
Electromagnetic Radiation Consultant
Toll Free: 877-783-6465
Website - Stop Dirty Electricity.com